

Virtual Stakeholder Meeting on OSHA Initiatives to Protect Workers from Heat-Related Hazards

May 3, 2022 • 12:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m. ET

Background

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) is hosting a public stakeholder meeting on the agency's activities to protect workers from heat-related hazards. This half-day meeting will allow stakeholders an opportunity to learn about and comment on the various efforts the agency is taking to protect workers from heat-related hazards, as well as hear about the agency's rulemaking process and ways for the public to participate.

What opportunities are there for participation?

At the end of each OSHA information session, stakeholders will have an opportunity to ask questions about the presentations. Additionally, this meeting will include public comment and testimony periods.

How can I participate?

OSHA is interested in receiving comments on initiatives to protect workers from heat-related hazards. Register in advance at projects.erg.com/conferences/osha/osha-heat.html. If you wish to present public comments during the meeting, you must indicate that while registering.

How will my participation impact OSHA initiatives?

OSHA plans to use this meeting to establish an open dialogue with stakeholders. Information presented may be used to inform future activities on preventing heat illness and injury in indoor and outdoor work settings.

How can I register to provide public comments?

If you would like to attend, provide public comment, or ask questions, please register at projects.erg.com/conferences/osha/osha-heat.html in advance and indicate whether you would like to provide comments. Public comments will be limited to no more than three minutes during this meeting. The order of speakers will be determined based on affiliation and will be confirmed with speakers prior to the event.
