SUBJECT:                                    OSHA Classification Tool – Subject Index

ABSTRACT

- Purpose:                                    This Notice announces a new OSHA Directives Tool, which will be made available on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page. It will provide a filing and records management aid for use by national and field offices. The OSHA Subject Index is an updated Index that is based upon the new Classification System introduced by OSHA Instruction ADM 12-0.9.
- Scope:                                    OSHA-wide
- References:                            OSHA Instruction ADM 12-0.9, OSHA Classification System of September 3, 2003.
- Cancellations:                        This Index replaces the Subject Index provided as Appendix B to OSHA Instruction 12.1 of October 30, 1978, which was cancelled by OSHA Instruction ADM 12-0.9, OSHA Classification System.
- Expiration Date:                    This Notice will expire on August 31, 2004 or upon posting of the Directives Tools - Subject Index on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page, whichever occurs first.
- State Impact:                        This Notice is not a Federal Program change requiring State adoption.
- Action Offices:                        National, Regional and Area Offices.
- Originating Office:                Office of Management Systems and Organization

Executive Summary

The OSHA Directives Tools-Subject Index is a tool for files management and reference purposes. This tool will be posted and maintained on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page.

Significant Changes

This Notice provides a Subject Index as a files management and reference tool for OSHA employees with files management responsibilities. It will be posted on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page. Office of Management Systems and Organization (OMSO) will keep the materials updated on the 'Tools' page. Amending Notices will be issued only when substantive changes are introduced.

I     Purpose

This Notice announces a new OSHA Directives Tool, which will be made available on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page. It will provide a filing and records management aid for use by national and field offices, the OSHA Subject Index. This is an updated Index, and it is based upon the new Classification System introduced by OSHA Instruction ADM 12-0.9. It replaces the Index provided as Appendix B to OSHA Instruction 12.1 of October 30, 1978.

II    Scope

This Notice applies OSHA-wide.

III   Cancellations

This Index replaces the Subject Index provided as Appendix B to OSHA Instruction 12.1 of October 30, 1978, which was cancelled by OSHA Instruction ADM 12-0.9, OSHA Classification System.

IV    References

OSHA Instruction ADM 12-0.9, OSHA Classification System of September 3, 2003.

V     Expiration Date

This Notice will expire on August 31, 2004 or upon posting of the Directives Tools-Subject Index on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page, whichever occurs first.

VI    Actions Information

A     Responsible Office. Office of Management Systems and Organization (OMSO).

B     Action Offices. National, Regional and Area Offices.

C     Information Offices. State Designees, Consultation Project Managers.

VII   Action Required

OSHA managers and supervisors should advise staff members who are assigned responsibilities for files and records management of the availability of this tool.

VIII  Federal Program Change

This Notice does not describe a Federal Program Change requiring State adoption or response, but States are encouraged to consider its implications for their operations.

IX     Significant Changes

This Notice provides a new tool for directives' writers. It will be posted on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page.

X       Periodic Updates

OMSO will keep the materials updated on the OSHA Intranet, 'Directives Tools' web page. Amending Notices will be issued only when substantive changes are introduced.
