(ii) A battery failure sensing and warning system with a means for automatically disconnecting the battery from its charging source in the event of battery failure.

(8) Any Li-Poly battery installation whose function is required for safe operation of the airplane, must incorporate a monitoring and warning feature that will provide an indication to the appropriate flight crewmembers, whenever the capacity and SOC of the batteries have fallen below levels considered acceptable for dispatch of the airplane.

(9) The Instructions for Continued Airworthiness (ICAW) must contain recommended manufacturers maintenance and inspection requirements to ensure that batteries, including single cells, meet a safety function level essential to the aircraft’s continued airworthiness.

(i) The ICAW must contain operating instructions and equipment limitations in an installation maintenance manual.

(ii) The ICAW must contain installation procedures and limitation in a maintenance manual, sufficient to ensure that cells or batteries, when installed according to the installation procedures, still meet safety functional levels, essential to the aircraft’s continued airworthiness. The limitation must identify any unique aspects of the installation.

(iii) The ICAW must contain corrective maintenance procedures to functionally check battery capacity at manufacturers’ recommended inspection intervals.

(iv) The ICAW must contain scheduled servicing information to replace batteries at manufacturers’ recommended replacement time.

(v) The ICAW must contain maintenance inspection requirements to visually check for a battery and/or charger degradation.

(10) Batteries in a rotating stock (spares) that have experienced degraded charge retention capability or other damage due to prolonged storage must be functionally checked at manufacturers’ recommended inspection intervals.

(11) System Safety Assessment process should address the software and complex hardware levels for the sensing, monitoring and warning systems, if these systems contain complex devices. The functional hazard assessment (FHA) for the system is required based on the intended functions described. The criticality of the specific functions will be determined by the safety assessment process for compliance with 14 CFR part 23, § 23.1309, and Advisory Circular 23.1309–1C contains acceptable means for accomplishing this requirement. For determining the failure condition, the criticality of a function will include the mitigating factors. The failure conditions must address the loss of function and improper operations.

It should be noted that these special conditions are not intended to replace 14 CFR part 23, § 23.1353 in the certification basis of the Spectrum model S–40 airplanes. The proposed special conditions would apply only to Li-Poly batteries and battery installations. The battery requirements of 14 CFR part 23, § 23.1353 would remain in effect for batteries and battery installations on the Spectrum airplane that do not utilize Li-Poly chemistry.

Issued in Kansas City, Missouri on November 20, 2008.

Acting Manager, Small Airplane Directorate,
Aircraft Certification Service.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Extension of the Comment Period

On October 9, 2008, at 73 FR 59713, OSHA published a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) titled “Cranes and Derricks in Construction.” In this NPRM, OSHA announced a proposed rule for cranes and derricks in construction, provided an explanation of the rule and its economic analysis, and solicited comments from the public regarding various issues related to the safe operation of cranes and derricks. The period for submitting written comments was to expire on December 8, 2008. However, a significant number of stakeholders have requested an extension (ranging from 60–90 days) for submitting their written comments and information. Some of the stakeholders noted that the length of the Federal Register notice (over 200 pages), the number of specific requests for public comments included in the NPRM (estimated at 150), and the numerous reference materials related to the NPRM all require more time for review than initially provided. In addition to those reasons, stakeholders have noted that they have not previously had the opportunity to consider many of the issues about which OSHA requests public comments, and further note that the Preliminary Economic Analysis and Initial Regulatory Flexibility Analysis are complex, extensive, and will require a thorough and accurate assessment.

OSHA believes that a 45-day extension will be sufficient to accommodate these considerations, facilitate the submission of thorough reviews, and provide OSHA with a complete record for this proposed rule that will improve the information available to OSHA in developing a final rule. Accordingly, OSHA is extending the comment period by 45 days, and written comments must now be submitted (sent or postmarked) by January 22, 2009.

II. Submission of Comments and Access to Comments

You may submit comments in response to this document: (1) Electronically at http://www.regulations.gov, which is the Federal eRulemaking Portal; (2) by facsimile (Fax); or (3) by hard copy. All comments, attachments, and other material must identify the Agency name and the OSHA docket number for this rulemaking (Docket No. OSHA—2007–0066). You may supplement electronic submissions by uploading document files electronically. If, instead, you prefer to mail additional materials in reference to an electronic or fax submission, you must submit three copies of the comments and attachments to the OSHA Docket Office (see ADDRESSES section of this notice). The additional materials must clearly identify your electronic comments by name, date, and docket number so OSHA can attach them to your comments.

Because of security-related procedures, the use of regular mail may cause a significant delay in the receipt of comments. For information about security procedures concerning the delivery of materials by hand, express delivery, messenger or courier service, please contact the OSHA Docket Office (see ADDRESSES section of this notice).

Comments and submissions in response to this Federal Register notice are posted without change at http://www.regulations.gov (Docket No. OSHA—2007–0066). Therefore, OSHA cautions commenters about submitting personal information such as social security numbers and dates of birth.

Although all submissions in response to this Federal Register notice, and all supporting materials cited in the Cranes and Derricks in Construction proposal, are listed in the http://www.regulations.gov and http://dockets.osta.gov indexes, some information (e.g., copyrighted material) is not publicly available to read or download from these Web pages. All submissions and supporting materials, including copyrighted material, are available for inspection and copying at the OSHA Docket Office.

Information on using the http://www.regulations.gov Web page to submit comments available at the Web page’s “User Tips” link. Contact the OSHA Docket Office for information about materials not available through the Web pages, and for assistance in using the Internet to locate docket submissions.
